

Most U.S. bats eat insects, providing essential pest-control services to fields, forests, and farms. Worldwide, bats are also important seed dispersers and pollinators.

Learn more about bats and how to protect them @ batcon.org.